

HIV/AIDS

Minority Reviewer Database

The Administration, HHS, Congressional Black Caucus, and Congressional Hispanic Caucus are working together to halt the severe and ongoing health crisis in racial and ethnic minority communities. This collaboration has resulted in the Minority HIV/AIDS Initiative, which supports the Minority Reviewer Database and other HHS activities.

To learn more about the database, or to learn more about funding and technical assistance opportunities supported by the Initiative, contact the Office of Minority Health Resource Center.

Combating HIV/AIDS is a priority for the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS). The Office of HIV/AIDS Policy and the Office of Minority Health are developing the Minority Reviewer Database as a resource for operating divisions of the Department as they organize grant review panels. This database will provide a pool of reviewers with specific expertise including many individuals from community organizations who have participated in a training program that prepares them to serve on federal review panels for HIV/AIDS health grants targeting communities of color. For more information on the Minority Reviewer Database, contact the Office of Minority Health Resource Center.
